Opening of Parliament—The Queen's Message

LONDON Feb [illegible]—Parliament reassembled to day The Queen's message says the peace of Europe remains unbroken She will exert her efforts to have it continued The question of recognizing Alfonso as king of Spain is under discussion and will be settled without delay Exertions for the suppression of the East African slave trade continue Its complete extinction is confidently looked for In the colonies during the past year there has been general prosperity Slavery has been abolished in the Gold Coast Henceforward there will be freedom there as elsewhere By a providential blessing the government has been able entirely to avert loss of life which was apprehended from famine in India. Finances are in an unsatisfactory condition The trade of the country has somewhat fallen off but general prosperity has prevailed The Queen recommends the repeal of exceptional statutes touching the peace of Ireland and the enactment of various laws relating to local affairs

The Queen's Speech.

LONDON, Feb 5—My Lords and Gentlemen My relations with all foreign powers are friendly The peace in Europe continues unbroken and I trust it will remain so. I shall use my utmost endeavors thereunto The conference at Brussels on the usages of war has been concluded My government has carefully examined the reports of its deliberations but considering the importance of the principles involved and widely divergent opinions therein expressed and the improbability of their reconciliation I have refused proposals for further negotiations The Serrano government in Spain has ceased to exist, and Prince Alphonso has been called to the throne The question of recognizing him in concert with other powers is now before my government and the decision will not be long delayed I earnestly hope that peace will be speedily restored to that great but unfortunate country Exertions for the suppression of the East African slave trade has not been relaxed I confidently trust they will result in the complete extinction of that traffic, which is equally repugnant to humanity and injurious to legitimate commerce The differences between China and Japan once threatening war, are now happily adjusted I have learned with pleasure that my minister at Pekin was largely instrumental in effecting this result The past year has been one of general prosperity and progress throughout our colonies The gold coast shows a steady advance in the establishment of civil government, peace has been maintained and slavery abolished. Henceforward there will be freedom there as elsewhere I shall doubtless have your concurrence in any measures which it shall be my duty to adopt, ensuring a wise and humane system of native administration in [illegible] An ample harvest has restored prosperity in India. By the blessing of Providence I was able to entirely avert loss of life which was apprehended from famine.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons Finances are in a satisfactory condition The trade of the country has somewhat fallen short but there has been general prosperity supported by an excellent harvest. Reductions of taxation have led to steady increase in the consumption of the necessaries of life, and such articles as contribute to revenue.

The Queen recommends the repeal of exceptional statutes in relation to the peace of Ireland and enactment of laws for the transfer of land and reconstruction of judicature She also recommends the passage of an act for the improvement of dwellings for working classes for consolidation sanitary laws to prevent pollution of rivers, and for the establishment of the office of public prosecutor

The Queen's Speech Discussed.

LONDON Feb 5—In the House of Lords to night an address in reply to the Queen's speech was moved and seconded

Earl Granville remarked that the list of new measures proposed by the Government was meagre and thought that to leave the question of the recognition of King Alfonso open to parliamentary criticism was impolitic

The Duke of Richmond replied that the Government would decide that question on its own responsibility

In the House of Commons, during the debate on the address Marquis Hardington said he trusted Alfonso would not be recognized until there was some proof that he would rule in accordance with the wishes of his people

The address was adopted in both Houses

The French Assembly.

PARIS, Feb 5—The assembly has adjourned until Thursday next, without taking final action on the Ventavon bill Colombet (Legitimist) intends to introduce an amendment, making members of royal and imperial dynasties ineligible to the presidency

LONDON Feb 5—Dispatches from Madrid say the government has requested Senor Zorilla to travel abroad in consequence of his detection in an intrigue with the Republicans Zorilla left Madrid for Paris to night

The Burned Insane Asylum

QUEBEC Feb 5—Thus far eight bodies have been discovered in the ruins of the Beaufort insane asylum burned last week It is reported one escaped lunatic named Fleury has killed his sister at Three Rivers.

INCIDENTS OF THE MARYSVILLE FLOOD

The Appeal of January 26th gives the following incidents in this connection

Flood incidents continue to develop themselves. The most painful one coming to our knowledge is that of Jacob Gunther residing on I street between Seventh and Eighth For some time his wife had been ill and was not expected to recover During her last hours she was in the midst of the flood, the water standing in her house several feet in depth over the bed The husband held his dying wife in his arms for an hour before her removal across the street to the house of McMullin, where she expired the second day of the flood Augus book keeper of the Marysville Woolen Mills narrowly escaped with his life while going from the mills to his residence on Fourth street between D and E Augus remained at the mills as long as he dared he met a stiff current, but pressed his way onward through the cold water until he reached the corner of Third and Maiden lane, where he found the sidewalk had gone, and he fell He however got upon his feet again and seeing a boat he jumped into it and rowed to the center of the street At this time he was hailed by the owners of the boat who applied to him all the lowest epithets of California vernacular, and acted more like a set of savages than men Augus left the boat and got to the Odd Fellows' corner where he fell again, and was rescued by H C Schroeder who helped him into McCarty's saloon, where they mounted the counter, and Augus received some stimulants. Schroeder then took Augus by the arm and assisted him to his home on Fourth street both wading in water nearly to their shoulders Schroeder is entitled to much credit, as he saved a life at the risk of his own. Johnny McDonald living at the corner of J and Eighth streets made a strong effort to save a favorite calf He got him upon a table in his kitchen but the water rose high enough to upset the table and the little calf was drowned not killed William Eberlein's family at their residence on H between Seventh and Eighth streets were in a critical condition for several hours the wife and three small children being alone During the rise of water Mrs Eberlein went to the stable and led the family horse to the house and worked hard to get him upon the front stoop But the animal was fractious and was returned to the barn where he saved himself by getting his fore feet upon a high manting In the meantime the husband arrived from his store in a boat and conveyed his family to the residence of B E Hickok

The Eagle woolen mills started up again last Monday after having been closed since the beginning of the recent cold weather. They are now working eight or ten looms and the rest of the machinery is operated by a full force of workmen They expect now to run on full time until they exhaust their present supply of material which will be in about two months

Sent to the Asylum

SAN FRANCISCO Feb 5—The man who on Wednesday last plunged into the bay while laboring under a fit of mental aberration caused by epilepsy who bears the name of Jas Berry was sent to the asylum to day for medical treatment Mr Berry represented Siskiyou county in the State Senate for two successive terms, between the years 1851 and 1856 and was regarded as the leading lawyer of Northern California As soon as his case was made public a number of gentlemen who formerly resided in Yreka, came forward and gave the authorities the benefit of their advice. Mr Berry was persuaded to go to the asylum for a short time

Interior California

LOS ANGELES, Feb 4—Work commenced yesterday on the Southern Pacific railroad at Spadra Track-laying is expected to commence on the Los Angeles and Independence railroad, at Traxton about the 1st of May Nearly $150 000 stock taken in the city

SAN DIEGO Feb 4—The rumor of the hanging of the Rogerson murderers by the people is unfounded They were lodged in jail this evening They would probably have been lynched but the people were anxious for their trial in the hope of bringing out something new to break up the gang of outlaws infesting the mountains

NAPA, Feb 5—Interest in the proceedings this morning is quite intense, both within and without the court room The latter was filled with spectators shortly after 8 o'clock while on the street corners knots of men gathered excitedly discussing the merits of the case Some of those who so early secured seats in the court room were doubtless attracted by a desire to hear the speech of the defense to be made by Napa's favorite orator Hon W W Pendegast It seems to be the general impression that the attempt to prove insanity has utterly failed and that the jury must acquit the prisoner by justifying the deed or not at all

At 9 30 A M the jury being all present, defendant was placed on the stand and sworn Muybridge stated that he left for the East by stage July 1860 and went on to relate the stage accident that occurred to him from which he was unconscious nine days On recovery he found each eye had its own vision, in looking at a man he would distinctly see two men since then he has had neither taste nor smell This state of things continued acutely for three months and to less extent for a year The stage company paid him $2 500 damages Two passengers were killed and all others injured by the accident No cross-examination

J D Eastland testified that he had known defendant 16 years pretty intimately After the stage accident he became eccentric in manner and speech The change was marked Cross examined—Witness never knew defendant to be guilty of violent conduct to any one This closed testimony for defense

J M Wolf called in rebuttal did not observe the slightest sign of excitement or insanity in Muybridge during the ride to the mine spoke of the country and the drive there was nothing in his manner peculiar

A long discussion here ensued as to the admissibility in rebuttal of testimony going to show the sanity of the prisoner the defense not having introduced the subject His Honor reserved his decision

Dr Shurtliff sworn—In forming an opinion of a man's sanity great excitement would be an element in determining the question if he was calm just afterward that fact would weigh against him

Henry Edwards sworn—Know prisoner saw him on the 17th Oct at 1 o'clock shook hands and conversed a little on business saw nothing unusual in his appearance or conduct

A recess till 1 o'clock was here taken to consult authorities upon the question of the admission of testimony as to defendant's sanity

The Muybridge case is continued Defense called a number of witnesses who testified to circumstances connected with the state of affairs between Larkyns and Mrs Muybridge and as to the state of Muybridge's mind on discovering evidences of his wife's crime tending to substantiate the plea of insanity The testimony is now all in except defendant's statement and one other Adjourned till Friday morning

REMOVING DRY PUTTY—According to an English journal hard putty can be removed from a window sash by simply applying a piece of heated metal such as a soldering iron or other similar implement When heated (not red hot) the iron is to be passed slowly over the putty which is thereby rendered so soft that it will part from the wood without difficulty

A man killed two big fat elk in Scoggin's valley the other day The snow had driven them out of the mountains into the valley and the hunters had no trouble in capturing them

BUTTEVILLE IN GENERAL

BUTTEVILLE Feb 1 1875

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

This village is like the Irishman's pony of which nearly every person has heard, little but old having been surveyed into blocks and lots for John McCaden of the Wallamette settlement (as written in the deeds of transfer one of which is now before me) in 1841, and christened by him Oxford, which name it bore for several years, until it spread into the dimensions of a village and was then called by Hon F X Mathieu by its present euphonic name he being at the time of which I write a promising young merchant of the town Governor Abernethy had the first building erected in the place a substantial warehouse Joseph Watt Esq put up the first dwelling for Mr Alanson Beers which was occupied during the winter of 1845 6 by Mr Geer, of this county the first white family who lived in the place and the only one living on the Wallamet between the mouth of the Yamhill and Oregon City Hon F X Mathieu W M Case and the writer purchased the land upon which they now reside in 1845 All business intercourse with the settlers living on French Prairie, by English speaking people, had to be done through an interpreter or in the classic Chinook Dr W J Baley resided on a farm adjoining Mr Case and the lamented Dr. Newell, at Champoeg In January 1846 Mr J E Hall now deceased settled in the neighborhood and David Crawford who crossed the plains in 1844 and had made a farm near the French settlement in the Cowlitz country abandoned it and established himself in this vicinity but selling his farm he returned to Pennsylvania, his native State in 1859, where he now lives In the fall of 18[illegible] F W Geer settled on his farm opposite Butteville where he still remains His father J, C Geer in the fall of 1847 took an adjoining claim and upon which he yet lives Father Geer will reach his 80th birthday on the 6th inst when his posterity, numbering just 100, all living in this country, intend to give the old gentleman a little surprise party They are classified as follows 11 children 53 grand children and 36 great grand children He was a soldier of the war of 1812 Mr Geer enjoys good health for one upon whom rests the weight of four score years, but, unfortunately has been deprived of sight for a number of years

Butteville Grange No [illegible], installed its officers for the present year on the 9th ult J W Grim W M, J W Graham O P F Castleman, L, F C Geer S J D Crawford, Sec, Mrs E Whitney T, J S Vaughn, A S, Oscar Cone G K Miss Jane Weston, C Mrs Rosa Mathieu, P, Miss C Olds F, Miss Ellen Ebberhard, L A S After the installation ceremonies were concluded all gathered round the festive board, where ample justice was done to a sumptuous dinner, such as farmers wives and their bonnie lassies understand so well how to prepare. The afternoon was spent in social amusement, and until 9 P M, when supper was served The young folks and not a few of the older boys and tidy little dames kept step to the most pleasing harmony of sounds At 11 P M the hand shaking went round and soon all were on their way homeward bound rejoicing for having accomplished so grand a social success

Butteville grange numbers near 100 members Their hall, a two story building 30 by 30 feet they purchased in June last from Hon F X Mathieu There is but one apartment on the first floor and intended for a store room Ascending by a wide flight of stairs to the second story, you enter the reception room, adjoining which are the ante-rooms each 10 by 15 feet Both open into the lodge hall 40 by 30 feet and is well calculated for the purpose for which it is used No [illegible] being about clear of debt is in a condition to render efficient services to its members socially and otherwise The members are making suitable preparations for celebrating the 22d by a grand Birthday Ball and entertainment Will send tickets of invitation to their friends generally Very respectfully

KING ALFONSO OF SPAIN

The Paris correspondent of the London Times has had an interview with Don Alfonso and writes thereof He has grown a good deal during the last year and his features have become more manly He has a very pleasing smile on his lips and has a frank countenance He apologized for keeping me waiting as he would not leave his mother before she retired to rest On my asking whether he would soon set out for Spain he said he was ready but he was told it was necessary to wait for a dispatch before fixing his departure On my remarking that this time he had not stayed long in Paris he said he regretted having left England, which he liked very much There were many things to observe and learn in that great country I remarked that he had been studying "Yes" he said, "and I have not finished I hope I shall still have time to study" I asked whether the news had not excited him "Not beyond measure" he said "because I expected it I try moreover to have sang froid under the circumstances but such an event is always exciting" I asked whether he thought the Carlists would continue the war "I believe at first it will be very hard but by degrees people will come to me and it will come to an end I am not the King of a party The Ministry is composed of men of all shades It is Liberal and Constitutional, as I have been taught to be myself, and as I sincerely am I know well that to be King of Spain at this moment is not a matter of pleasure but I shall try to understand my duty and do it" "Will the Queen, your mother accompany you?" "Oh no" he said with vivacity, "that has already been decided She remains here" There was a moment's silence I felt that he must be fatigued and waited for him to dismiss me The young King who has not yet the habits he will soon learn did not understand my attitude but after some moments he offered me his hand very cordially "If you come to Madrid while I am there it will give me pleasure to see you and to remember France which I love so much" I hoped he might offer Spain a long reign and the peace which it so much needed and I should follow his Majesty's career with real interest "I thank you very much," he said I retired very favorably impressed The King does not conceal his desire to learn He has a simple affable air enjoying his royal fortune with a kind of modest anxiety which marks a certain maturity of mind I do not know what the Spaniards have in reserve for him, but I am sure he carries to Spain a sincere love of his country and a warm desire to put an end to its evils

BISMARCK MEETING HIS ENEMIES IN DEBATE IN THE GERMAN PARLIAMENT—His gigantic frame absolutely trembled with passion his fiery eyes flashed and his heavy moustache bristled a paper he took up during his first speech for purpose of reference, vibrated visibly in the passionate grasp of his sinewy hands and ever and anon his closely buttoned uniform became tense almost to splitting across the huge chest as he set back his shoulders and threw up his head, regarding his foes with that implacable glance which never fails to shake the strongest nerves when he darts it at an object of his hatred and contempt In the course of an experience neither brief nor ordinary I have seen many remarkable men at moments when they may have been expected to labor under excitement of the most vehement description but I have never yet witnessed the consciousness of unbounded power expressed in the physique and bearing of a human being as I saw it in Prince Bismarck As he stood forward, facing the house the natural sternness of his aspect accentuated by the rigidity of his military tenure he looked to me like the incarnation of an ungovernable will like a Colossus unquestionably capable of bearing upon his shoulders cares and responsibilities that would crush a common mortal into powder —Cor London Telegraph

LETTER FROM CAMP HARNEY

FREAKS OF THE WEATHER IN EASTERN OREGON—MATTERS IN THAT COUNTRY—AN ARCHBISH CHIEF OF INDIAN AGENTS

CAMP HARNEY Jan 24 1875

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

We have had such queer freaks of weather I am obliged to inform you of them Up to the 16th inst we had no winter—roads dusty in fact On that date the mercury fell from an average temperature of 35° above zero to 25° below continuing this lick for five days or rather nights as during the day time it would rise to about 6° or 10° below The very marrow congealed in our bones on the 18th A blinding snow storm set in continuing thirty-six hours and depositing two feet of snow Just now the elements are more amiable and a mild Chinook prevails

The road or trail over the mountains has been kept open for horseback travel, and a few days ago an officer started for Canyon City with transportation to fetch the new priest Father Orth stationed here by order of the archbishop, so I am told He took bob-sleds

We get our mail very regularly via Canyon but the wild cat arrangement via Winnemucca seems played out Mr Anderson, the carrier on the latter route has not appeared for some ten days, and many conjecture he is lost As the old man went poorly clad and worse mounted he certainly must have perished if he was caught out in the late storm Owing to deficiency of funds, supposed to be supplied by the N W Stage Co, probably he may have vacated the line The good sense of department headquarters in continuing our military expressman, McBean, is to be commended

Mr Sam Parrish keeps his Indians well in hand and no complaints are made of them from any quarter He is the best official of the bureau I have met for these six years past high or low.

I suppose we may expect One-Armed Brown along soon as I see he is appointed agent of the savage bands Well the people about Goose Lake will be overjoyed to see One Armed Brown He would do about as much good the service and department as the man who proposed locating the new reserve by going to the top of the bluff and taking a view with a field glass and then going home

The few settlers hereabouts manage to keep their cattle in good order as we experience by the quality of our beef supplied on the block by Mr Miller, of Gilnes river which is much better than we ever got this time of year out of any of our own corral

As there is nothing startling to relate from this locality, I will not burden you further

A SERIOUS LOSS

A RUSSIAN COUNTESS HAS $75,000 WORTH OF RARE OLD LACES STOLEN ON THE RAILWAY

The Russian Countess Olga de Maluta Fraloff visited this country in 1869 for the benefit of her health, under the advice of her physicians She is the wife of Count Fraloff who holds a high position in the Russian Army She had in her possession rare laces, valued by her as heirlooms, and mostly made as she claimed, on her ancestral estates She considered them worth about $150,000, although their intrinsic or selling value was probably not more than half that amount, but she was "born in them married in them" and they had been worn by her ancestors and herself on so many memorable occasions that they seemed to be like an inseparable portion of her patrimony These laces had been worn by the owner at the assemblages of rank and beauty in the principal cities of Europe, for the Countess was a great traveler, and the laces in Paris, which she visited on ten different occasions were well known as one of the finest and rarest collections of old specimens ever worn in that capital of fashion

On November 4, 1869, while the Countess was journeying to Niagara Falls by the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad the trunks containing the laces were broken into shortly after the train left Albany and the contents were stolen Every effort by the detectives and the offer of large rewards failed to effect the recovery of the prized laces The loss almost killed the Countess and she has never since fully recovered from the blow She endeavored to obtain payment from the railroad company for her property, but the company would not admit that the theft was on account of negligence on the part of their employees She brought suit in the United States Circuit Court to recover $75 000 the claimed intrinsic value of the laces The case was tried in April, 1872 and resulted in a disagreement of the jury as to the amount to be awarded plaintiff eight of the jurors being in favor of awarding $75 000, two $25 000, and the other two $1,000

The laces consist of the finest "Old Regency Point," "Old English Point" "Point d'Alencon, Flemish, and other rare qualities The case came on for retrial yesterday, in the United States Circuit Court, before Judge Wallace Messrs James W Gerard and John M Bowers appearing for the plaintiff and Messrs Elliot F Shepard and Frank N Shepard for the railroad company The plaintiff is now absent traveling in Africa, but her deposition, consisting of the evidence given by her on the previous trial will be read Evidence similar to that given on the former trial, proving the plaintiff's rank, and corroborative of her testimony respecting herself will be given by Baron Charles R Ostensacken and Waldemar De Bodisco the Russian Minister at Washington The retrial will probably last several days —N Y Times, January 8th

THE POPE AND THE ROMAN NOBLES—The Voce della Verita publishes a report of the Pope's speech to the Roman nobles His Holiness said the revolution which commenced in 1849 was at first timid and hypocritical It wished the Pope to be combative and aggressive but as the Pope did not desire to be combative in a revolutionary sense he left Rome subsequently the revolution became more powerful and at the present time it marched on without sparing any one The Pope then condemned the revolution for compelling young men to enter the army and thereby place both their bodies and souls in jeopardy He severely stigmatized the corruption with which they were surrounded The revolution also endeavored to persuade the Roman nobility to follow a diplomatic or a military career but certainly not a legal career for that required tranquility to enable its members to devote themselves to study The Pope advised his hearers to reject the insinuating counsels given them and to occupy themselves patiently with domestic affairs and to pray to the infant Jesus to strengthen their faith

TULE ROOTS AS AN ARTICLE OF FOOD—A new California edible has been discovered by the patient gastronomic researches and fearless experiments of some of the Chinese population The Colusa Sun says that two tons of tule roots were shipped from that place to San Francisco last week the consignors and consignees being Chinamen The Mongolians declare them excellent and nutritious as an article of food and that a good market can be found for them at six cents per pound If this statement is reliable a tule swamp will be a more valuable possession than a wheat field of similar dimensions and the business of reclaiming swamp lands may as well be given up

The Daily Oregonian.
SATURDAY MORNING FEB 6 1875

TO CHICAGO DIRECT

Almost every day our merchants receive circulars postal card advertisements, etc from wholesale dealers in Chicago, inviting the trade of this city, and through this city the trade of course, of the State of Oregon Occasionally a solicitor for a Chicago house puts in an appearance in person, and evinces the utmost readiness to convince our people that it would be immensely to their advantage to purchase their goods from Chicago instead of New York or San Francisco For one, although we are not engaged in mercantile pursuits, we have been quite willing to be convinced, if such was really the fact, in order that we might suggest to our readers a matter so much to their advantage It may be the logic of these gentlemen or of the circulars and other invitations aforesaid, is not quite so conclusive to the ordinary mind as to the mind of a Chicagoan, highly polarized toward their own city, as all Chicagoans are, but conclusive or not, it has generally been awarded a fair hearing This, however, will hardly be the case hereafter, if Chicago leading journals continue to denounce as a dishonest and scandalous job the measures before Congress to aid in the construction of a railway direct to the East Our readers not long since had an opportunity of reading in one of the leading journals of Chicago just that sort of attack on the Portland, Dalles and Salt Lake enterprise That Chicago or Chicago journals should throw their influence against that enterprise is to us incomprehensible In the natural course of events Chicago would derive more benefit from the construction of that road than any other city in the Northwest, Portland alone excepted It would open the very line of communication which would be best adapted to secure to Chicago the trade she now solicits, and would beyond doubt give her no inconsiderable part of it And yet her representative journal, forgetting the magnificent generosity with which all the rest of the Pacific coast has been assisted, in the Pacific railway and Northern Pacific railway subsidies, forgetting our isolation and our great need, arrays itself against this proposition to help us a little toward a position in which we can help ourselves. A merchant of some prominence here, referring to the matter yesterday, expressed the sentiment that will be found very general, when he said, Portland does not want any of Chicago's merchandise, if Chicago places herself in the attitude of an enemy to the prosperity of Portland and of Oregon And a reference to the statistics of our trade will convince any one that, isolated as we are, the trade of this city is not a mere trifle, but is greater than that of Eastern cities of double our population

SOME MORE OF THE BULLETIN S BUSINESS HONOR.

A well known citizen of Junction, referring, in a private letter to the outcry of the ring organ about unfairness in newspaper enterprise, says

> This pretense of a willingness to abide by fair dealing may sound very fine to people who know nothing of the means resorted to by the ring paper to supplant the OREGONIAN but to such as do know the facts it is the abiet crying 'stop thief! For some time past agents of the Bulletin have been in the habit of going to persons in this section of the country and warning them personally and as friends, that if they sent their subscription money for the OREGONIAN, they would be sure to lose it, declaring that the OREGONIAN was running behind and the proprietors were unable to keep it on its feet. I have known of one or two persons hesitating to send for the OREGONIAN because of these friendly warnings, and have known of such representations being made to numbers of persons While I do not authorize you to publish my name in this connection just now, I engage to furnish abundant proof of what I say, if it is called for

How is that for fairness in business? It is even more detestable than stealing dispatches and then lying about it And the paper that is floated by such shameful means, talks of fairness and even mentions business courtesy! Let our merchants put a parallel case to themselves Suppose Mr A., through superior enterprise and foresight, brings to the city better [illegible] in the same line which are sold by Mr B Mr B goes out among the country dealers and represents everywhere that A. is in failing circumstances, and consequently no permanent and profitable trade can be established with him He then steals A.'s goods from his shelves from day to day and sells them as his own, solemnly assuring all his customers that they have just been imported by himself at great cost, and at the same time sets up a cry that A is an unfair dealer and seeks undue advantages

How long would Mr B retain his seat in the Board of Trade? How long would he continue in business relations with the honorable merchants in the city? How long would men continue to recognize him on the streets? Just as long as they would keep in the Board of Trade a man repeatedly convicted of larceny in the [illegible]; just as long as they would sustain business relations with a known thief and give him countenance and recognition on the public streets. Not a day longer

As but very few people ever see and fewer read, the little tender to the pilfering sheet of this city, which is published at Salem and edited by a journalistic bummer from California, we can inform the public that the Salem fraud reiterates the whine of the Portland news-thief

The ring organ proclaimed its determination to 'leave no stone unturned to break the bonds of the infamous outrage A friend remarks that the first stone turned by the ring crowd was the stone door steps under which the OREGONIAN had been placed by our carriers.

The San Francisco Chronicle with a good deal of truth in our opinion, says the whole crowd of men and women involved in the Tilton Beecher scandal are "nasty in sentiment and morals

Thomas Carlyle declines the honor tendered him of the order of Grand Cross of the Bath, and Alfred Tennyson declines a baronetcy

And still the ring organ raves about the OREGONIAN's 'monopoly of the dispatches and still it declares it has more and better dispatches than the OREGONIAN has

THE STOUGHTON LETTER

A letter written by T W Stoughton a prominent Democratic lawyer of New York city, and published in the New York Times of January 14th, reviewing the Louisiana coup d etat from a legal standpoint, has attracted much attention in the East, and in the main appears to receive the approval of nearly all the fair minded and conservative class, in both parties In his statement of the facts the writer falls into error, doubtless unintentionally in one or two respects For instance he says the five members of the Wiltz legislature who were expelled by the military had no certificates of election They had certificates from the commissioners of elections but not from the returning board In some other particulars his version of the facts (which is only such a version as one could collect from the telegrams published at the time the excitement was at its hight) does not correspond with what afterwards was generally admitted on all hands But for the purposes of the argument he makes, his facts are sufficiently accurate We do not concur in the views expressed—or rather implied—as to what would constitute a case for the intervention of the military authorities of the government, but we quite agree with the writer that such case had not arisen in Louisiana when such intervention had occurred Although his letter is somewhat voluminous, and the public have already had more of this subject than would be borne except upon a matter of the utmost importance, we present them this morning with this letter, omitting the introductory portion, which is merely an admonition to moderation and candor in treating the grave question, and a deprecation of all hasty expressions on the subject After this "matter of inducement," as the lawyers would call it Mr Stoughton proceeds

The great question at the outset is—and one upon which all else depends—were the persons occupying the hall into which Col De Trobriand entered with his soldiers a legislative body peaceably assembled? Clearly upon the statements of the Conservatives themselves they were not A brief outline of facts carefully gleaned and quite undisputed I will now present

The Representatives who assembled in New Orleans on the 4th inst were all new members By the law of Louisiana it was the duty of the clerk of the previous House to proceed to the Hall of Representatives and there take his seat and act as presiding officer of the new House until the newly elected members should organize by the choice of Speaker That he might know who were entitled to vote he was furnished with a roll containing the names of all of the members declared by the returning board to have been elected Whether this board was wisely or unwisely created for that purpose—whether its action was honest or dishonest—is quite immaterial to the present enquiry for by the law of Louisiana no name could be called by the clerk not found on the roll nor could any person participate as a member in organizing the House unless his name was upon it as furnished by that board Without some such legal restrictions the grossest outrages might be perpetrated in the organization of a legislative body for if persons claiming seats but not returned as members could vote for such a purpose every attempt to deprive them of seats thereafter would of course be not only absurd but generally impossible The inflexible rule therefore—indispensable to the existence of every representative assembly and indeed to representative governments—is that members lawfully returned and they only can participate in the organization of a legislative body and should persons not so entitled forcibly or otherwise intrude themselves therein expulsion violent or peaceful, as might be necessary, would be the least of their deservings

Now under this law with the roll of members delivered to him by the returning board in his possession Mr Vigers the old clerk proceeded on the 4th inst to the hall of the House of Representatives and there took his seat for the purpose of organizing that branch of the legislature No person of either party has suggested that he failed or intended to fail in the exact performance of his duty The roll contained the names of 102 members It is conceded that of these fifty two were Republicans and fifty Democrats It is admitted that before assembling in that hall it had been in caucus determined that the Democrats would support Mr Wiltz for speaker and the Republicans Mr Hahn It was well known that all of the fifty two Republicans would vote for the latter and the fifty Conservatives for the former and it was of course well known that if the House was organized by members whose names were on the roll a Republican speaker and Republican officers would be elected for no one has ever pretended that any defection from party of any member was expected or actually occurred Thus stood the case when these persons entered the hall and it need not be argued that if the Conservatives as they are called expected to prevail in the organization by the election of speaker and other officers they intended to accomplish this not by votes of members enrolled but by force of fraud and violation of law That they thus intended the sequel proves

I will now take the statement of the Conservatives and of Senator Schurz for what happened after the clerk took his seat They say he called the names of all the members on the roll and then that a Democratic member moved that Wiltz take the chair as temporary speaker—that he was declared elected, but not by the clerk, says the Senator—and he took the speaker's chair Who voted for this man? Who declared him elected? By what authority did he take that seat? It was the duty of the clerk, on nomination of speaker by the respective parties to put the question to the members and declare their votes, and no one else had the shadow of right so to do He alone could preside until a speaker should be elected and he could be elected only by a majority of the members whose names were on the roll, and this election by the majority the clerk only could determine and declare No one has had the hardihood to say that Wiltz was elected by such a majority and without such election there could be no organization Nor was there by the usage of the Louisiana legislature or any other such an officer known as temporary speaker This so-called temporary organization was resorted to as will appear as a surprise, and for the purpose of declaring five persons not returned members The only organization proper or lawful was a final and permanent one

The truth as to the manner in which this plot was managed was doubtless as it is stated by various witnesses of the outrage While the roll was being called by the old clerk a member nominated Wiltz as temporary speaker and without a moment's delay he was declared elected, not by the clerk says Mr Schurz and sprang to and took forcible possession of the speaker's chair and gavel There in defiance of the efforts of the clerk to proceed and regularly organize the assembly Wiltz called upon a justice present to swear him in This was done, and then a temporary clerk was nominated and declared elected and then in the same manner a sergeant at-arms and immediately following this numerous assistant sergeants at-arms who on being declared elected opened their coats and displayed badges of office showing clearly that all this fraud and outrage had been carefully planned and contrived beforehand and that these assistant sergeants were selected and doubtless armed with a view to holding violent possession of the House and of its organization after the fraud should have been perpetrated Immediately after this temporary organization the conspirators—not a legislative body peaceably or otherwise assembled—proceeded to declare five persons who had obtained access to the hall but who had not been returned by the returning board members and entitled to sit as such This had been accomplished by fraud and violence a great public wrong against the State of Louisiana—subversive of law of constitutional rights—by means of which if successful the legislative power was delivered over to the persons not charged with it as representatives of the people but who—a minority at the outset—had by fraud and force so added to their numbers as to become a majority

It has been said in the speeches to which I have alluded that it is the right of every legislative body to determine who shall sit as its members With certain qualifications this is true but can the persons not lawfully returned as members but claiming to sit and whose right is contested vote as members for the purpose of establishing this right? Take the case we are considering There were fifty two Republicans and fifty Democrats enrolled as members Five others—Democrats—claimed the right to sit They must have voted for Wiltz as temporary speaker or he could not have had a majority Nor could they have been declared members without also voting on that question if there had been a lawful organization for in that event there would have been a majority of Republicans The proposition that every legislative assembly is to judge of the qualifications of its members of course assumes that the persons whose right to sit is in question are not to act or vote as members until a lawfully constituted assembly has determined that right This proposition was perverted and misapplied by speakers at the Cooper Institute

Enough I think has been said to establish quite clearly that this body of men was not the legislature of a sister State peaceably assembled and I think it will hardly be disputed that if the fifty two members had forcibly resisted the taking of the speaker's chair by Wiltz they would have been justified They however preferred to leave the lawless men who had thus sought to take from them their rights as representatives and attempted to do so In the meantime by the aid of the five members thus admitted Wiltz had been declared permanent speaker and the other officers were also declared permanent and efforts were made while this was proceeding by force to compel the Republican members to remain and some were thus violently detained This tumult and violence accompanied by the drawing of knives and pistols coupled with the confusion outside induced these Democratic members to call upon Col de Trobriand for protection and this he afforded them by an address to persons in the lobby which in view of his official character and the force at his command quieted them and with the thanks and amid the cheers of the assembly he withdrew

In view of these facts who will say that this was a legislative body? Who that it had peaceably assembled? It had come into existence by violence and fraud It had by force and fraud expelled a majority of the lawfully returned members, and had thus deprived them of all participation in the organization of the House It was a lawless body forcibly, not peaceably, assembled It held the hall of the House of Representatives by violent means and the five members unlawfully admitted and employed to accomplish this were the instruments by which this scheme had been made effective.

As soon as it could be done the fifty two Republican members prepared and signed a protest, stating what had been accomplished and presented it to Governor Kellogg for his action I do not think he took the strictly correct course though in dealing with the men who had attempted by the means described to secure the control of the legislature of a State honest men will not be overnice in requiring the observance of technicalities He should however in my judgment, have advised these members to take with them the old clerk and go again to the House and direct him again to call the roll of members with a view to a lawful organization Had they been resisted in that he should have employed the force of the State to aid them and had this been insufficient he should then have called upon the military force of the United States to protect the State from domestic violence for no violence can be more destructive to a State than that which seeks to prevent the meeting and lawful organization of its legislature That in such case he would have been strictly correct in making this requirement cannot be doubted for he may make it when the legislature cannot be convened and it clearly cannot be convened when it cannot be organized

Instead of pursuing this as I think, strictly regular course the governor as the legislature could not be convened called upon Col De Trobriand to remove from the hall the five members without whose presence and aid there would have been no pretext for the pretended organization or for the substantial expulsion of the majority Under these circumstances the officer of course without consultation with the President removed these persons from the legislative hall of the State but not from a legislative body of which they were members It should be borne in mind that when the governor of a State calls for aid under the provision of the Constitution of the United States, it is generally in an emergency when delay may be fatal and the officer called upon may generally it is submitted, rely upon the requirement of so high an officer as well founded Should it prove otherwise, the officer in a doubtful case will hardly deserve the censure of his Government although his act may be disavowed And in this case the President, acting on the advice of wise and prudent counselors like the Secretary of State and of the Treasurer and others may conclude that the case presented by the governor of Louisiana was not within the Constitution and even if he should few honest and peaceful citizens will regret that turbulent and revolutionary men were checked by wholesome though misapplied force And moreover it should not be forgotten that situated as our Federal officers were—surrounded by armed White Leaguers the air filled with threats and rumors of violence and bloodshed which even the fearless Sheridan avows were as he believed imminent—but little time could be taken for deliberation, and the officer commanding would hardly be justified in refusing to act on the requisition of the Governor unless he saw that the action required was unlawful or wholly unnecessary

My purpose in what I have thus hastily written has been mainly to establish that the statement deliberately put forward that a State legislature peacefully assembled had been wantonly dispersed by orders of the President is utterly without foundation Such an act would have been wholly without excuse indeed a crime without justification We have seen that there was no legislature but a body of men who had obtained and held their places in a legislative hall by violence and fraud We have seen also that the President could not have ordered or until all was over, have known of, the acts of Col De Trobriand To have hastily disapproved of them—without official information of what was done—would have been unjustifiable and a reflection upon that officer

I certainly have no sympathy with Gov Kellogg his career or character nor have I any respect for his judgment or for his purposes But at the same time, I cannot believe in the innocence or peaceable purposes of his political opponents who no longer since than last September forcibly overturned his administration and took control of the State That their later purpose has been to obtain its control by an exhibition of less force and more chicane fraud and management I do not doubt and these they have employed believing as I suppose they were appropriate weapons against what they regarded as the frauds of the returning board But with all this we have nothing to do in determining whether we shall or not condemn the highest officer in the nation for an act performed by his subordinate upon the requirement of the Governor whom these people are struggling to overthrow It will probably appear when the acts and orders of the President are known that his directions to the Federal officer in command have been framed in careful compliance with the constitution and in harmony with that strong indisposition as expressed in his message to interfere in the local affairs of a State unless clearly within the law and in a case of the strongest necessity

T W STOUGHTON

A letter from Albany says the enterprise of the OREGONIAN in securing later and fuller telegraphic news is universally commended in that section and that the more the Bulletin whines the more people are disgusted remembering its recent boasting of its prosperity and its representations concerning the OREGONIAN, which are all proved false by this last and greatest step forward

The Public Ledger of Philadelphia sends its almanac for 1875 which is a book of reference, in matters of prominent events and statistical information is worthy a place in every office and household With it is a photographic copy of the Ledger of June 8, 18[illegible] which is a wonderful specimen of the art

A short time ago it was called the Morning Bulletin It now goes by the name of the [illegible]

The Odd Fellows of Albany have taken the initiatory steps towards establishing a lodge library It is an excellent idea, and we hope will be fully carried out

INQUEST.—The inquest on the body of L. Griffeth drowned last Saturday night, will be continued at 1 o'clock to [illegible] We [illegible] hopes to have the presence of one or [illegible] men who were in the boat with de[illegible] at the time of the accident, and to get [illegible] mony before the jury

In this connection we take occasion to state that we were called upon by Mr Lewis Love and Capt Moore who were [illegible] at the time the body of Griffeth was conveyed to the undertaker's, and they inform us that the gentleman who gave us the details of the matter a few days ago was in error in his statements, and that the wagon in which the [illegible] was placed was covered and that no one could have seen the [illegible] from the [illegible] unless they had gone to the wagon for that purpose. That justice may be done to all parties, we make this explanation as our entire knowledge of the matter was derived as stated, from others

AN EXCITED YOUNG LADY.—A young lady, who lives near the south end of Fourth st., became much excited a few evenings since [illegible] because her beau failed to take her to church and she was not [illegible] to go The lady was fearful lest he should depart thereby necessitating her to attend church with big brother " so she hurriedly [illegible] out her tangled curls and donned her attire When all ready to start she discovered to her dismay, that she had forgotten to don her cloak Rushing frantically into an adjoining bed chamber the young lady grabbed [illegible] her brother's [illegible] and again appeared [illegible] to thrust her arms into the legs of the pantaloons Not until her brother [illegible] that the arms of her cloak [illegible] her, did she discover the [illegible] Since the event the young lady has mentally resolved numberless times to be on time in the future

A WRONG IMPRESSION.—An item published in this paper Thursday morning conveys a wrong impression, we are told in regard to the funds donated to pay the [illegible] of the sailor boy Louis [illegible] It was stated that the money was contributed by members of the Young Men's Christian Association This was but partly true, as donations were received from any [illegible] and [illegible] in the matter by [illegible] Benevolent Society The Young Men's [illegible] was merely designated as a [illegible] to carry out the [illegible] The services took [illegible] at the [illegible] Thursday forenoon and were well attended [illegible] his former [illegible] as well as by [illegible] who had formed the [illegible]

SINKING OF THE ALICE.—From the Albany [illegible] we learn that the steamer Alice ran on a snag in the Willamette just above Bu[illegible] on Tuesday afternoon The snag penetrated the hull just under the boilers, making a large hole The boat was run [illegible] for a bar on the left bank about 100 yards below where she sank—35 inches of water in the hold no freight [illegible] The Chief [illegible] along in about an hour and took off the passengers The Chief came up [illegible] and took off the freight, and on Thursday morning the [illegible] brought up carpenters and lumber for repairing the hull, and the Alice will probably be enabled to proceed [illegible] her way below to-day

TIMELY DISCOVERY.—Last evening, about 8 o'clock, a small lad, residing near the [illegible] of Third and Alder streets, discovered [illegible] coming from the rear of the [illegible] which stands just [illegible] of Good [illegible] and saw [illegible] on opening the [illegible] bed tick, filled with [illegible] on the floor burning [illegible] the boy [illegible] on the burning [illegible] until the fire was all extinguished [illegible] persons who heard the boy's shouts came running to his [illegible] It is not [illegible] communicated to the [illegible]

LUCKY.—A young [illegible] her home for the [illegible] of the Good Templars' Lodge [illegible] reaching the lodge room she [illegible] her chagrin that she had lost a [illegible] highly prized gold breast pin, which [illegible] the young lady [illegible] to search the [illegible] and it She had not [illegible] but a short distance until the pin was found [illegible]

CRITICAL CONDITION.—The [illegible] day says "Mr R C Kinney slept well last night, which has not been the case with him [illegible] and seems to be improving of the [illegible] in his foot His son Dr A N Kinney, and Dr W [illegible] Watkins, of Portland [illegible] and used the knife to [illegible] affected with [illegible] friend and of his family are [illegible] concerning his condition

LOST AND FOUND.—A little boy about [illegible] of age disappeared from his home on Harrison street late Wednesday evening and was not found until morning. [illegible] which was instituted which [illegible] covering but few traces of his [illegible] Finally he was found walking up [illegible] company with a young [illegible] had remained all night. He [illegible] home—by his ear.

NEW SHAFT.—A new [illegible] is now being turned out at the Willamette iron works for the steamer Ohio in place of the one [illegible] broken a few days ago, while the boat was on the way down to this city This [illegible] considerably larger than the old [illegible] will be capable of rendering more [illegible] Only a few days delay will be occasioned by the accident, as the shaft is almost complete

WEATHER REPORT.—From the [illegible] of the U. S. Signal Station of Observation, Portland, Oregon, February 5, 1875

NOT HEARD FROM.—At quite a late hour last evening the steamer Jos McNear arrived from Kalama. Nothing has been heard from the Dixie Thompson or Annie Stewart It is probable that the latter [illegible] which left Kalama on Wednesday [illegible] got blocked up in the ice and is unable to get [illegible] up or down

WOOD THIEVES.—On Thursday night four Chinamen were caught in the act of [illegible] wood from the residence of Mr Van Schuyver in the western portion of the city They were taken into custody and conducted to the city jail Yesterday morning in police court these thievish celestials were each sentenced to the county jail

MONTHLY CONCERT.—The regular monthly missionary concert will take place at the Taylor street church next Sabbath The committee of arrangements have taken especial pains to make this concert one of unusual interest. It will be held in the auditorium and everybody is cordially invited to be present

RECAPTURED.—We are in receipt of the following dispatch from Salem, under date of February 5th

To the Oregonian Warden Thompson caught escaped convict J D Brown at Cornstock last night

That justice may be done to all parties we make this explanation as our entire knowledge of the matter was derived as stated, from others

AN EXCITED YOUNG LADY —A young lady who lives near the south end of Fourth street became much excited a few evenings since simply because her beau called to take her to church and she was not ready to go The lady was fearful lest he should depart, thereby necessitating her to attend church with her 'big brother' so she hurriedly straightened out her tangled curls and donned her best attire When all ready to start she discovered to her dismay, that she had forgotten to don her cloak Rushing frantically into an adjoining bed-chamber the young lady grabbed up hastily her brother's Sunday go-to-meeting trowsers and again appeared vainly and vorting to thrust her arms into the legs of the pantaloons Not until her brother informed her that the arms of her cloak were too long for her, did she discover the [illegible] Since the event the young lady has mentally resolved numberless times to be on time in the future

A WRONG IMPRESSION —An item published in this paper Thursday morning conveys a wrong impression, we are told, in regard to the funds donated to pay the funeral expenses of the [illegible] boy Lewis Griffeth It was said that the money was contributed by members of the Young Men's Christian Association This was but partly true as donations [illegible] from any who desired to [illegible] intention was manifested in the [illegible] members of the British Benevolent Society. The Young Men's Association was [illegible] designated as a proper organization [illegible] and the details of the funeral [illegible] took place at the room on [illegible] and were well attended by his [illegible] and other sailors in port, as well as by many of our citizens who [illegible] the [illegible]

[illegible] OF THE ALICE.—From the Albany P[illegible] we learn that the steamer Alice ran on a snag in the Willamette just above Buena Vista, on Tuesday afternoon The snag penetrated the hull just under the boilers, making a large hole The boat was immediately headed for a bar on the left bank about 100 yards below where she sunk—33 inches of water in the hold. No freight damaged. The Chief [illegible] along in about an hour and took off her passengers The Ocelo came up Wednesday and took off the freight, and on Thursday morning the [illegible] Patton brought up carpenters and lumber for repairing the hull and the Alice will probably be enabled to proceed on her way below to-day

TIMELY DISCOVERY —Last evening, about 8 o'clock, a small lad, residing near the corner of Third and Alder streets, discovered smoke issuing from the rear of the blacksmith shop which stands just south of Good Templars hall and saw a gleam of fire. He rushed up and, on opening the back door, found an old [illegible] with [illegible], which was lying on the floor burning. Crying out that there was fire, the boy filled a bucket and dashed some water [illegible] This was repeated until the fire was all extinguished Several persons who heard the boy's shouts came [illegible], but found the fire out. It is not known how the fire was communicated to the tick.

LOST.—A young [illegible] a few evenings since left her home for the purpose of attending a Good Templars Lodge A few minutes after [illegible] the lady discovered to [illegible] that she had lost a handsome and [illegible] gold [illegible], which was pre[illegible] [illegible] the young [illegible] to search for the [illegible] She had not proceeded but a short distance until the pin was found lying [illegible]

[illegible] —The [illegible] of yesterday says "Mr R C Kinney slept well last night, which has not been the usual with him and seems to be improving of the erysipelas in his foot. His son Dr A N Kinney, and Dr W H. Watkins, of Portland attended him yesterday and [illegible] the knife to [illegible] the foot affected with [illegible] Many friends of our old friend and of his family are deeply anxious concerning his condition, which is very critical."

LOST AND FOUND —A little boy about eight years of age [illegible] from his home on [illegible] late Wednesday evening and was not found until morning A vigorous search was instituted, which resulted in discovering but few traces of his whereabouts Finally he was found walking up Third street in company with a young friend with whom he had remained all night. He was [illegible] how [illegible] his 'dear papa,' [illegible]

NEW SHAFT —A new [illegible] is now being turned out at the Willamette iron works for the [illegible] Ohio in place of the one which was broken a few [illegible] ago, while the boat was on the way down to this [illegible] This shaft is con[illegible] and will be capable of [illegible] Only a few days delay will be occasioned by the accident, as the shaft is already completed.

NOT HEARD FROM —At quite a late hour last evening the steamer Jos McNear arrived from [illegible] Nothing has been heard from either the Dixie Thompson or Annie Stewart It is probable that the latter steamer which left [illegible] on Wednesday for Astoria, has got blocked up in the ice and is unable to get either up or down

WOOD THIEVES —On Thursday night four Chinamen were caught in the act of stealing wood from the residence of Mr Van Schuyver in the western portion of the city They were taken into custody and conducted to the city jail Yesterday morning in police court these thievish celestials were each sentenced to the county jail

MONTHLY CONCERT —The regular monthly missionary concert will take place at the Taylor street church next Sabbath The committee of arrangements have taken especial pains to make this concert one of unusual interest. It will be held in the auditorium and everybody is cordially invited to be present

New Years Eve. And the fire light rules king of the gas-light. It is in his ruddy glow that the hollies and evergreens glisten, while the weird eyes of the portraits on the wall look into eyes that look again steadfastly. But the fairest picture of all is in the face of the fair girl upon which his red light falls and flickers.

"May Igleheart, I ask you for the last time, do you love me? Will you be my wife?"

The tall form of the young man swung fiercely around as he spoke thus passionately his own face darkening, as he waited, sternly looking into the girl's face for an answer.

"Ross Newton," returned May Igleheart, reproachfully, yet in a voice softened by pity, "why will you pain my heart and yours by again asking that question which I have already answered? Were I to reply thousands and thousands of times it must ever be the same. You could not feel it more than I do Ross."

"Then you do not—will not love me?"

"As a friend," she began, but before she could finish the sentence, his hoarse voice stopped her.

"Friend!" he exclaimed contemptuously. "No, by heaven! Never your friend. I ask for your love, your life or nothing."

She sat [illegible] with eyes bent upon the [illegible] hands resting on her lap while his [illegible] swept on in a torrent of bitter words.

"I see it all. I know it. It does not require keen [illegible] eyes to penetrate your secret, May. You did care for me—you might have been mine had not that Philip Stanley stepped between us!"

"We cannot control our love, Ross," said May, sadly.

"You speak well, May, but you know next to nothing of the bitter[illegible] of love like mine, the love that borders on [illegible] in its intensity," and by a quick movement he clutched the hands of the girl in his, and held her as powerless as a child, as he [illegible] forth his parting [illegible].

"Women change their minds thank heaven. And I swear, May Igleheart, you shall yet be the bride of Ross Newton!"

Truly there was much in the [illegible] and pain of this interview to oppress May Igleheart's soul. The very depths of this man's love and [illegible], so openly displayed, were in themselves [illegible] of coming evil. His parting threat cast a shade of depression upon her which she found it impossible to banish until a light footstep resounded upon the hall floor, and a bright voice cried "Many happy [illegible] to you, May!" Suddenly all the joy and gladness of her fair young face returned [illegible] forward to meet the new comer.

"Welcome him Birdie," she said playfully to the pet [illegible] curled at her feet who had lain there a grim and silent watcher while the other remained and in obedience to her voice the little shaggy [illegible] animal bounded up [illegible], and whined a low, pleasant greeting.

There could not be a more striking contrast than was presented between the lover who had just left her side in angry scorn and he who now came forward to grasp her extended hand. The one as dark and stern as the summer storm cloud, the other with all the beauty and brightness of every day sunshine beaming from the eyes, about the mouth, and playing upon each feature of his handsome face and figure.

Moments sweet to each passed thus unheeded by them in happy conversation, until imperceptibly, a touch of sadness crept even into his light-hearted tones as he said seriously:

"May, it is so sweet to be here with you thus, that there is something I cannot bear to tell you, and yet—I might have known there must be an end to this pleasant companionship. I have [illegible] I have come," he answered, "to say good by."

"Good by?" she asked tremulously.

"Yes," he went on, "to my [illegible], I shall not have the pleasure of leading you out in the dance to-morrow night. I shall have to resign that pleasure to some happier man. Byrd Kirby [illegible] me to join her here at the train to-night, and proceed with her to New York to-morrow, and I shall have to go." And as he spoke his hand wandered into his bosom, from whence he brought a picture, which he placed silently before May for inspection. It was a handsome, high bred girl face that lay there quietly in May Igleheart's lap uncovered, until raised mechanically with the question:

"And who is this Byrd Kirby?"

"Is it possible I have never told you of her? The woman to whom I am engaged," he replied with a forced laugh, "the woman whose wealth [illegible] our fallen fortunes, the woman whose great beauty consoles me for the loss of such as you May," he said bitterly.

For a moment whole waves of anguished emotion dashed over the face of the girl beside him threatening to overthrow all composure, seeing which his own face darkens with pain, yet a mighty effort of self repression calms the accents of her voice as she asks lightly enough:

"But we shall meet again?"

A little while and May Igleheart's bosom heaves hotly as she stands behind the curtain watching the dim outline of his retreating figure as it disappears down the lamp-lighted street and into the distance.

This, then, was the ending—the bitter, pitiless ending! This the New Year fete for which she [illegible] her heart on the morrow! After months of such intimacy as only [illegible] know, she had all her love for him to [illegible], but a toy in the play that had amused him! Ah! well! let the morrow dawn and though smiles might fail to come at her [illegible] she could still wear an armor of womanly reserve too deep for curious eyes to penetrate and discover the lacerated heart lying beneath.

[illegible] but a few brief months since Philip Stanley had first sought out and known May Igleheart.

Yet as she stood there alone and "at bay" what [illegible] of joy and trust and splendor [illegible] the life of those months to her. And yet day after day had he sought and lingered in her society as a pastime. How stinging to her [illegible]. [illegible], and no word to her of that woman to whom his honor and his faith were plighted.

Truly [illegible] to challenge—perhaps revenge.

New Year's Eve. The city streets ablaze with light and alive with human beings hurrying to and fro in pursuit of pleasure or in search of some gift for those dearest and nearest on the [illegible].

"And I bring my loved one a gift to-night" was the joyous thought hugged close in the breast of a young man as he sped lightly over the new [illegible] snow.

"How will she look so sweet and lovely as she did this night one year ago, when I was forced to leave her in pain, if not resentment? Ah, yes! her smile was ever brightest for me and Byrd Kirby might have spared herself the tirade with which she set me free had she known it was freedom I craved as the bird whose pinions are scorched!"

And thus busy thought impels onward flying feet, until before he knows it quite he stands on the hearth rug where he stood just one year ago waiting the entrance of her to whom he brings the New Year's gift.

The door opens quietly and May Igleheart glides in with all the self possession and grace of a queen. Her cheeks crimson fitfully as she recognizes the face of her visitor. There is a perceptible start of surprise, and then she sweeps forward gracefully as she murmured in tones marred neither by excessive grief nor joy:

"Ah well! You have come then to redeem your engagement for the dance so abruptly broken last year? I am quite glad to see you Mr Stanley even at so late an hour. Pray, be seated."

He goes toward her and takes her hand in both of his own. She left it to him and he kissed it [illegible] and again.

Still something in the complete calmness of her manner, the strange glitter in her bright blue eyes, daunts the young man for an instant causing him to flinch and falter ere he frames a reply.

"O May! can you ask why I came, knowing of old my devotion to you?"

She did not speak, however, and her cold fingers returned no pressure to his.

"No, May, I have come for something better still. I have come to bring you a token of my faith and loyalty to you. I have come to bring you a New Year's gift which I have been keeping for you—only you."

"Is it not too late?" she asked coolly.

"It rests with you entirely. I trust not. To-morrow then we shall see."

"No, to-night."

I[illegible] hearted as a boy, his thoughts burn with longing to ask the question nearest his soul, but, fenced in by the shield of this woman's graceful ease he finds it impossible. Ever and anon bright flashes of the girl whose eye once trembled and fell beneath his gaze [illegible] the calm face before him, yet with it all there is some change something lost or gained, a something new to him, a womanly reserve which he cannot fathom.

And thus hour is added to hour in light conventional talk, and he is not nearer asking good his gift to her than when he first entered.

"But before we part to night May, you will tell me whether or not you will take this gift I bring you."

"Is it quite nice then?" Pretty as this, she inquires, coquettishly toying with a gold locket suspended from her throat.

"It is myself—my own love," he replies passionately as he stoops and kisses her cheek, quickly opening the locket in her [illegible] and [illegible] a confused way asking:

"And whose picture is this?"

The girl trembles from head to foot at his caress, yet withdraws herself proudly as she icily responds:

"The man to whom I am engaged."

Stabbed to the heart, Philip Stanley cries only "Ross Newton?"

"Yes, he whose wealth restores our fallen fortunes, he who consoles me for the loss of such as you Philip."

His own words thrown cruelly back upon him to rankle in his heart forever more.

Their hands clasp coldly. A smile, a bow, and Philip Stanley is out in the street a grief burdened man. Day dawns ere his weary feet seek a place of repose.

The mills of the gods grind slowly.

New Year's eve. A night as sweet and soft and balmy as June's own. In the sky bright stars sing songs together. On the earth, light, warmth and merry making reign.

Seated by an open window May Igleheart's head is dropped upon one hand dejectedly. Time has not stolen one trace of beauty from the face, in all save sadness the same. It is lovely still, though sad as her thoughts which wander thus:

"New Year's Eve. No lover to night. Twice wooed and twice cast aside for some one richer in the world's wealth.

May Igleheart your heart must be a pitiful thing."

"Why do I wander here?" is the question that intrudes itself upon the reflections of a young man as he idly paces a street near the home of her he has once loved.

"New Year's Eve, but I have no love to night. Twice rejected! Philip Stanley think of that and of love if you dare!"

And his feet keep pace with his thoughts and they are wending—where?

May Igleheart still sits by the window, the longing yet in her eyes.

All of a sudden a footstep grates on the floor without, a shadow falls across the book on her lap.

"May!"

"Philip!"

And heart meets heart as hand clasps hand.

Before the New Year season was over May and Philip were married. Their wedding day was the brightest heralded in as it had been by one most perfect New Years eve.

Average California wheat ex warehouse is quoted by latest telegrams from Liverpool at 46s 3d per quarter Oregon ditto 46s 6d. Oregon cargoes for prompt shipment are quotable in Liverpool at 44s per quarter; ditto in Cork 44s. The European markets are all reported dull and cargoes for shipment find slow sale.

In business circles we have but little matter for comment. Financial affairs of a local character are moving on quietly, the available funds at bank being more than ample for the current demand for accommodations on prime security. Loans at 10@12 per cent per annum are occasionally made. Only first class commercial paper is freely discounted at the usual rates.

Trade of a general nature shows about the average amount of activity which has been exhibited during the week and rather more life was infused into matters this afternoon by a report that the ice in the Columbia had broken up and that the Dixie Thompson had reached Kalama from Astoria but as the telegraph line to Kalama was down the report could only have been guess work, and was probably untrue.

Breadstuffs Statement

From J C Merrill & Co the following comparative statement of the estimated stocks of grain, etc in Liverpool on Dec 31 1874 has been received: Wheat, qrs 141 211; barley qrs 9 449; malt, qrs 1 331; oats qrs 1 99[illegible]; bean qrs 4 1[illegible]2; peas qrs 10 [illegible]04; corn qrs 50 001; oatmeal loads 8 87[illegible]; flour sks 158 670; flour bbls 39 140. On Dec 31 1873 the stock of wheat on hand was estimated at 166 89[illegible] qrs; barley 2,100 qrs; oats 9 100 qrs; beans 1 916 qrs; peas 3 050 qrs; corn 52 738 qrs; oatmeal 10 1[illegible] loads; flour 36 666 sks and 29 6[illegible]1 bbls.

The Coffee Trade.

The receipts of coffee in the United States in 1874 were 275 402,113 lbs. The stock on hand January 1 1874 was 13 909 000 lbs making the total supply of the country 288 610 143 lbs. The exports amounted to 4 37[illegible] 316 lbs, leaving 284 [illegible] 827 lbs. The stock on hand January 1 1875 was 6 059 000 lbs showing the consumption for the year to be 278,[illegible]8 8[illegible] lbs an increase of 9 040 667 lbs over the previous year.

Wheat.

There is an increased volume in offers and we hear of several lots ranging in quantity from 2 000 to 20 000 bushels each as being in the market for which holders are demanding $1 60 and upwards but we hear of no buyers above $1 57½ per cental while other [illegible] dealers are, it seems, temporarily out of the market, because, as they allege, there is no profit in it at present rates of tonnage. We also hear that the price paid for the cargo shipped by Grangers the sale of which we noticed a few days ago, was 46s per quarter.

From our exchanges in several parts of the Willamette valley we learn that there can be no doubt that a great deal of damage has been done to the growing crop of wheat by the freeze. In another column we publish the remarks of the Independent which is printed in an important locality as to wheat growing and an Albany paper says:

As the breadth of wheat sown in Linn county last fall was not very large the loss will be correspondingly small, but from representations made to us yesterday, we fear all that was put in is a total loss. However there is no loss without its gain, and one benefit this general freeze out will be productive of is, it will certainly effectually kill the wild oat, which have been such a pest to farmers of late years.

We fear the gain alluded to will fall far short as an offset to the loss if reports that reach us are reliable. However, should the spring prove favorable for sowing the acreage likely to be planted to spring wheat will be much larger than ever before, and the aggregate yield may be nearly as large as has been anticipated though the difference in quality between fall and spring sown is rather against the latter, more especially when raised for shipping purposes.

Shipping Intelligence

The Oriflamme would be due here to morrow night were the river open.

The Muriel has a large portion of her ballast out and will take on cargo next week.

The schooner Hera[illegible] at the North End mills receiving lumber.

The Windward, which has nearly completed repairs lies at Barnard's dock.

A large portion of the cargoes of the Conflict and Parsee is on barges waiting an opportunity to get to Astoria.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

This compound of the vegetable alteratives Sarsaparilla Dock Stillingia and Mandrake with the Iodides of Potassium and Iron makes a most effectual cure of a series of complaints which are very prevalent and afflicting. It purifies the blood, purges out the lurking humors in the system that undermine health and settle into troublesome disorders. Eruptions of the skin are the appearance on the surface of humors that should be expelled from the blood. Internal derangements are the determination of these same humors to some internal organ or organs whose action they derange and whose substance they disease and destroy. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA expels these humors from the blood. When they are gone the disorders they produce disappear such as Ulcerations of the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys, Lungs, Eruptions and Eruptive Diseases of the Skin, St Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter and Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Ulcers and Sores, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Pain in the Bones, Side and Head, Female weakness, Sterility, Leucorrhœa arising from internal ulceration and uterine disease, Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Emaciation and General Debility. With their departure health returns.

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER

This standard article is compounded with the greatest care.

Its effects are as wonderful and satisfactory as ever.

It restores gray or faded hair to its youthful color.

It removes all eruptions, itching and dandruff and the scalp by its use becomes white and clean.

By its tonic properties it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, preventing baldness and making the hair grow thick and strong.

As a dressing nothing has been found so effectual or desirable.

Dr A A Hayes State Assayer of Massachusetts says of it: "I consider it the best preparation for its intended purposes."

Buckingham's Dye,

FOR THE WHISKERS.

This elegant preparation may be relied on to change the color of the beard from gray or any other undesirable shade, to brown or black at discretion. It is easily applied being in one preparation and quickly and effectually produces a permanent color which will neither rub nor wash off.

[illegible] Effort Made for C[illegible] Party W[illegible]

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—[illegible] Conservatives [illegible] all [illegible] the congressional committee [illegible] signed and signed by all the [illegible] of the legislature acknowledging the Kellogg government and endorsing the [illegible] of 1872, on [illegible] retaining a majority in the lower house, by seating the five Conservative contesting [illegible] here. McEnery who was invited to be [illegible] announcing the arrangement. The measure was carried by the country members, the city delegation being mainly in [illegible] Great excitement prevails [illegible] at this late hour and strong [illegible] the [illegible] is already [illegible] The sentiment of the extreme wing of the Democratic party is [illegible] the [illegible] they consider a sacrifice of the people to policy and a difficulty may be confidently [illegible]

NEW ORLEANS Feb 6.—In the Conservative caucus last night a debate on the compromise was kept up until after midnight. The proposition under consideration was that the Conservatives would have a majority of about ten in the House, and that the [illegible] of the Kellogg [illegible] inquired into. The vote stood 38 in favor of this compromise 27 against. After the vote [illegible] Ellis it is stated tendered his resignation. Gov. McEnery who was [illegible] by courtesy [illegible] of the caucus it was time to lower the [illegible] banner and he [illegible] to retire.

NEW ORLEANS Feb 6.—The [illegible] says the action of the Conservative caucus last night on the [illegible] was subsequently [illegible]. The Conservative caucus to night is considering the report of [illegible] the congressional committee which is that the Conservatives claiming to have been elected to House Representatives and whose certificates are [illegible] with [illegible] by the returning board agree to submit their claims to seats to the award and arbitrament of the [illegible] of the congressional committee now in New Orleans and to abide by such award, and those who under such award [illegible] of the House severally agree to [illegible] by their influence and [illegible] compromise. The parties claiming [illegible] from the 8th and 22d districts also agree to abide by a similar arbitrament. [illegible] members holding certificates from the returning board also agree when such award of the committee is [illegible] by the [illegible] at the State house and [illegible] to be the House of Representatives, they [illegible] a sitting of said body for the purpose of [illegible] said [illegible], and if it is [illegible] disputed members [illegible], they will also support a resolution which is as follows:

WHEREAS Doubts have existed and still exist, as to the legal results of the election in this State in [illegible]

WHEREAS It is alleged by a large portion of the people of this State and believed, that the result of the election for members of the House of Representatives and for treasurer, in November last, was illegally determined and [illegible] by the [illegible] board; and

WHEREAS, Their doubts and allegations and belief have tended greatly to disturb the public mind and unsettle confidence and is so injurious as to affect the material interests of State; and

WHEREAS It is deemed necessary to the welfare of the State that an adjustment of the foregoing difficulty should be effected, therefore

Be it hereby resolved by the general assembly of the State of Louisiana, That said assembly will [illegible] approving of the same will not disturb the present State government claiming to have been elected in 1872 and known as the Kellogg government nor seek to impeach the Governor for any past official act and that henceforth will accord said Governor [illegible] necessary and legal [illegible] and advancing the peace and prosperity of the people of this state and that the House of Representatives as its members as constituted under the award of the congressional committee shall remain without change except by the resignation or death of members, until a new general election and that the senate herein recognized shall remain unchanged except so far as that body may itself make changes on contest.

This proposition was discussed in caucus but no definite action taken by the Conservatives.

Republicans state that the members of the Kellogg house will accept no compromise.

A resolution [illegible] into the Kellogg house inviting absent members to return and asking co-operation in all [illegible] measures [illegible] produced considerable [illegible] and all [illegible] no quorum. A renewal of the object of compromise occasioned the [illegible] disorder [illegible] has no before prevailed since January 4th.

A mass meeting of Conservatives was held to night to protest against the proposed compromise. [illegible] was [illegible] attended. Speeches were made by H[illegible] Ogden, McEnery and Wiltz.

NEW ORLEANS Feb [illegible].—The compromise is the general topic of conversation to day among politicians and business men. The indications are the vote to morrow in the Conservative caucus will be very close, members apparently being about equally [illegible] against a compromise. It is understood not [illegible] represent of the Kellogg legislature will yield [illegible] consequently the proposed adjustment is generally regarded as impracticable. Gen Sheridan [illegible] It is understood the Congressional committee are unanimous in the opinion that the action of the returning board was illegal and that the Conservatives elected a majority of the members of the legislature at the late election. The congressional committee will conclude the investigation to morrow and leave at once for Washington.
